i think it's important for lists like this to include some affordable scents; like the tocca or the ineke; which is why i included them even if they didn't do much for me.

for example, one time i was at wal-mart, and the guy in front of me had these shoes that he thought were on sale but didn't ring in as being on sale.

the message seems striking enough: what might be necessary for kabul might also be necessary for dekalb county.
